

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates generally to an accessory for a forklift truck that enables the truck to easily retrieve and move rolled goods, such as carpets, linoleum, and other
5 materials commonly transported and / or sold in rolls. The essential features of the invention include a removable pole, and a pair of pallet-like rectangular tubes for receiving the forks of a forklift truck. The device is compact, sturdy, and capable of accommodating a range of pole lengths.